Assignment 4

The due date for submitting this assignment has passed. Please see your professor if you have not submitted this assignment.

Consider the following statements:

1. A patient presenting with a fever of 103°F is a "fever of unknown origin" (FUO).

- True
- False
- Don't know

No. the patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers:
- No

b. The pregnancy test assay detects the presence of the hormone ________ or the ________ of the hormone.

- Human chorionic gonadotropin, blood
- Human chorionic gonadotropin, urine
- Human chorionic gonadotropin, urine

Comments: None

No. the patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. A toothbrush is a type of ________.

- Toothbrush
- Toothpaste
- Tooth

Comments: None

No. the patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. A box of tissues is a type of ________.

- Tissue box
- Tissue paper
- Tissue

Comments: None

b. The patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. Bacteria are examples of ________.

- Microorganisms
- Viruses
- Protozoa

Comments: None

b. The patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. The area of investigation is a term associated with ________ et al.

- Infectious disease
- Hospital-acquired infection
- Antibiotic

Comments: None

b. The patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. The area of investigation is a term associated with ________ et al.

- Infectious disease
- Hospital-acquired infection
- Antibiotic

Comments: None

b. The patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. The area of investigation is a term associated with ________ et al.

- Infectious disease
- Hospital-acquired infection
- Antibiotic

Comments: None

b. The patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. The area of investigation is a term associated with ________ et al.

- Infectious disease
- Hospital-acquired infection
- Antibiotic

Comments: None

b. The patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. The area of investigation is a term associated with ________ et al.

- Infectious disease
- Hospital-acquired infection
- Antibiotic

Comments: None

b. The patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None

b. The area of investigation is a term associated with ________ et al.

- Infectious disease
- Hospital-acquired infection
- Antibiotic

Comments: None

b. The patient is incontinent.

Accepted Answers: None