Assessment 7.2: Reading and Writing

The due date for submitting this assignment has passed. As per our records you have not submitted this assignment.

All questions are compulsory.

Mark(s) [1 x 10]

1. An __________ is a written symbol that represents a word or a morpheme; some common examples in English are the symbols $+$, $-$, and $\times$.

2. The term __________ refers to the set of rules for writing the words of a language.

3. Homophones are words that are __________.

4. Expansions besides __________ over predictable words and thus create keep track of the features in these words. This is known as the __________ effect.

5. The __________ hypothesis proposes that skilled readers organize the material they read into prosodic phrases similar to the way they would if they speak.

6. Currently tested words exhibit a __________ effect; meaning that low-frequency words are tested longer than high-frequency words.

7. A writing system that represents each syllable with a different symbol is called __________.

8. Fluent __________.

10. Developmental aphasia.

11. Syntactic sequencing syndrome.

12. Orthographic.

13. Syllable.

15. Syllable.